Random number is generated by filling a text file with the decimal digits from 0 to 9. Can be used to create a secure PIN, a digital signature, or a cryptographic key Vary the code length To do this, you need to use a different file for each set of numbers you want to have. As soon as you create the first one, it will open automatically. Just go through the steps you usually take to create a text file. Share your results Open the generated file, and insert all the numbers in it. Save it, close it, and copy the file to the destination you want. The file will be ready to use from there on out. Tips & Tricks You can save the generated file, and if you wish you can also convert it to an integer of another type. In such a case, I would suggest to use a different file for each set of numbers you want to have. The icon will still be present, it's just not the system default. The app can also choose whether to show the app icon in the status bar and it will present a menu to the user to choose which design they prefer. On Android 8.0 and above, the toggle button for System UI Tuner is placed at the top right of the status bar, next to the digital clock. The feature is completely optional, and the API is also completely optional. Android 8.0 and above requires that the app has the SYSTEM_UI_THEME permission. The only required permission is ACCESS_COARSE_LOCATION. The System UI Tuner API works as follows: Specify the desired position of the app icon in the status bar Allow the user to choose between the dark or light theme. The layout file(s) of the app that
