For the record, I always preferred the vocal work of Kris Kristofferson, especially in the "Liaisons" episode, to the facial acting of some of the other performers, including the aforementioned Robin Curtis and John Billingsley. Curtis seemed to be "playing" the role of Guinan, but Kristofferson seemed to be just acting his natural. Kristofferson's performance, as you might imagine, was just as critical as that of the Starfleet characters. In any event, I think the success of the "Liaisons" and "Worf and Guinan" segments can be attributed to the acting work of Kristofferson, particularly during the "Worf and Guinan" segment. I'm glad that was a reply to this. I know Kris liked the role, so I can understand that. It was very much like John Billingsley as Guinan. He was a bit stiff on that role though. I always much preferred Kris's performance. It always seemed that his guinan was very human and real. He made her into a character, but it was not an overacting. He was a more real actor for the part. I always felt it was a definate improvement to the Role of IL-4 and CD23 in IgE synthesis in the B lymphocyte. We previously reported that high concentrations of IgE synthesis in humans was accompanied by expression of IgE receptor on the B lymphocytes. In this study, we clarified the molecular aspects of the IgE synthesis with the use of the mutant cell lines of BALB/c background that produce no IgE in vivo. The IgE synthesis was blocked in the transfected B cell line BCL1 by small interfering RNA for CD23, which is a low-affinity receptor for IgE, and CD23 transfectants efficiently produced the IgE comparable to those obtained in normal B cells. On the other hand, the IgE synthesis in the BCL1 clone expressing a mutant form of IL-4 was slightly increased. The addition of IL-4 significantly induced the production of IgE by normal B cells. The addition of the anti-CD23 mAb during the stimulation with IL-4 did not, however, inhibit the IgE synthesis in the BCL1 cells. On the contrary, the addition of the anti-CD23 mAb to the culture medium during the stimulation with anti-IgM antibody markedly decreased the IgE synthesis in normal B cells. A similar phenomenon was obtained in the IL-4-exposed B cells. These findings suggest that IL-4 may be involved in the regulation of IgE synthesis via the induction of CD23 and CD23 may work in cooperation with IL-4 to positively or negatively regulate the IgE synthesis by the B lymphocytes.Q: Coefficients in multivariate polynomial or in the Taylor Polynomial I need to solve the following exercise: Consider the Taylor polynomial for a multivariate function: $$ \Phi(x_1,x_2)=\Phi_1(x_1)+x_2\Phi_2(x_1,x_2)$$ with $x_1\in [0,1]$, $x_2\in[0,1]$, and $\Phi(x_1,x_2)\in [0,1]$.
